Before you say "BON VOYAGE"

Do your car check

No-one wants to be stranded on the side of the road whilst everyone else is on the beach. Make sure you do a thorough car check, and that your spare tyre is in perfect nick.

Even better, take your car for a pre-holiday service. It's also important to check that you have your insurance documents at hand and that your driver's and vehicle licenses are both up to date.

Keep your phone charged

How did we ever survive on holiday before these handheld pieces of magic were invented? They're our GPS, our entertainment, our music, our source of all necessary information and, of course, our phones.

Don't forget a handy car charger or battery bank, and keep your phone charged throughout your trip.

Emergency contacts and First Aid Kit

Will your neighbour be at home over the festive season, or is there someone nearby who can check on you place? And do you have your emergency contacts handy on your phone during time away? Although it's unlikely that an emergency will occur, there's no harm in being prepared for one. Always keep a First Aid Kit in you luggage or you car, with the basics ready at hand. Make sure you have your Medical Aid card in your wallet, and that they're aware of where you and your dependents will be over the festive season.

JOU VERSEKERING HET ONS NODIG

Turn off your geyser

Save money, do your bit for the planet. It's a no-brainer to make sure your geyser is off before you leave the house.

Gifts Galore

Be smart about Christmas shopping – get in done now. There are so many lovely gift markets taking place throughout the country, supporting local artisans and creatives. Instead of the overwhelming bustle of the shopping mall over Christmas, why not collect your gifts from these fairs en have them wrapped and ready before you hit the road? All card written, all admin done. And only relaxing left on your list of things to do.

Do your Insurance checks

Ensure that your all risk cover is correct to cover all the kiddies electronic toys as well as dad's.

Enjoy your Holiday, but remember.....Talk to us because YOUR INSURANCE NEEDS US.
